

New Specialist Pig Diets

SCA NuTec, the producers of specialist piglet starter feeds that are available exclusively through Norvite in Scotland, has launched a new range of diets - The Weanrite Range.

Modern genotypes, coupled with new advances in health and disease management, have resulted in pigs with high potential growth and maximised feed efficiency. Drawing on their extensive experience and on parent company Provimi's global research and development programme, SCA has formulated a new range of diets targeted at making the most of this potential. The combination of the building blocks of traditional SCA diets and new developments in feed technology have resulted in the Weanrite Range.

Key elements in the Weanrite Range include Immubooost, Nushield and Tranzone2. Immubooost is based on a selection of specific ingredients to help support and boost the immune system thus maximising the use of vaccinations and supporting superior health. Nushield is a package of natural antioxidants which works alongside Immubooost to help promote health and therefore performance. A number of years ago SCA introduced the TranZone concept to aid gut health and therefore enhance feed digestibility and utilisation. Tranzone2 is the result of continued research to develop a second generation gut health package.

The SCA Weanrite diets employ the most up-to-date advances in natural feed additives. These new diets offer an unrivalled opportunity to help you manage and fine tune your feeding regimes in order to produce consistently high quality pigs which meet the most stringent market requirements.
